Lilly's family came to the United States from Japan. In Japan, people take off their shoes before coming into a house. They also eat many foods that people in other countries don't even know about.

When Kevin went to play at Lilly's house, he was asked to take off his shoes before coming inside. Kevin thought this was strange, but he did it anyway.

Later, Lilly's mom brought them a snack. Kevin had never eaten anything like this, but tried it anyway. To his surprise he liked it. Kevin decided that it was fun trying new things!

1. How did Kevin feel about doing things in a different way at Lilly's home?

2. How do you think Lilly felt about being different?

3. How do you think Lilly and her family felt about Kevin being different from them?
